Rebate Terms and Conditions

Air conditioners and heat pumps that are rated SEER 14, 15, 16, 18, or even 22 by a manufacturer can vary in efficiency, depending on the other equipment used in the system. Typical system components include the air conditioner/heat pump, indoor coil, and furnace/air handler. With a higher SEER rating, you generally get more built-in upgrades, advanced technology, and a longer warranty. Similar to how a higher miles-per-gallon rating results in fewer fill-ups for your vehicle, a higher SEER rated HVAC system will result in your dollars going further to cool your home. Installing a new, matched air conditioning system in your home can save you up to 50% on your cooling costs, depending on the efficiency of the system. Having an SEER 18 air conditioner that is not part of a matched system installed in your home could result in a system that operates at SEER 13 or less.
